

Green Entrepreneurship as an engine for transition

Description

GreenTecLab (GTL) develops support structures in Spain, Greece and Slovakia for green start-ups that use innovative ideas to promote climate protection. Six “GTLs” hubs are being created, each with a different focus. This workshop will present the different topics and activities and at the same time invites the participants to evaluate the different approaches regarding their transformation potential and to feed their own ideas into the development process of the different hubs.

Background

Members of the EUKI community who are experts in the topics that are focused on GreenTecLabs are addressed and invited to give their feedback and to be part of an advisory board for the GTLs. The workshop increases the opportunity for networking with other countries and initiates international collaborating processes.

The heterogeneity of the experts but also of the GTLs supports the inclusion of different transformation dimensions.
